

The 7th Conference on Global Governance
China, EU and Latin America:
Current Issues and Future Cooperation
Shanghai, April 27-28, 2009

China's New Diplomacy in Latin America

Haibin Niu

Shanghai Institutes for International Studies

Context of Sino-Latin American Relations

- Transition of International System
- Emergence of China as a global player
- The impact of current economic recession

China's Comprehensive Engagement with Latin America

- economic linkages in trade, investment, and financial cooperation
- cooperation with emerging economies and engagement with regional institutions
- development experiences exchange
- a favorable international system

Diversified Cooperation Forms

- bilateral strategic partnership and FTA
- engagement with regional institutions
- institutional cooperation beyond the region
- people to people linkages

Understanding Sensitive Issues

- China's rapid growth: more opportunity than challenge
- Taiwan issue: peaceful development and one China policy
- converging development models: Washington Consensus, Santiago Consensus, and Beijing Consensus
- geopolitical factors : a benign trilateral relationship based on shared interests

Outlook

- a comprehensive roadmap
- encourage people to people
- Involvement in the dynamic regional integration
- work together to a more reasonable international system